FAQ's

How much Stamp Duty Land Tax/ Land Transaction Tax will I have to pay?

This depends on the purchase price of your property and whether you are a first-time buyer or whether you own an additional property. You can calculate the amount you will need to pay by using HMRC's website or if the property is located in Wales by using the Welsh Revenue Authority's website. Please look at the Stamp duty sub heading on the last page of this document for more helpful information.

How long will my house purchase take?

How long it will take from your offer being accepted until you can move into your house will depend on a number of factors. The average process takes between 4-8 weeks. It can be quicker or slower, depending on the parties in the chain. For example, if you are a first-time buyer, purchasing a new build property with a mortgage in principle, it could take 10 weeks. However, if you are buying a leasehold apartment this can take significantly longer, between 8-12 weeks due to obtaining management company information. In such a situation additional charges would apply.

The precise stages involved in the purchase of a residential property vary according to the circumstances. However, as a general overview, the usual process is:

31. A first-time buyer is defined as an individual or individuals who have never owned an interest in a residential property in the United Kingdom or anywhere else in the world and who intends to occupy the property as their main residence. Under the current rules, first-time buyers pay no Stamp Duty on properties worth up to £425,000. However, from 1st April 2025, this threshold will drop to £300,000, meaning buyers purchasing properties valued above this amount will face additional costs. For example, a home priced at £425,000, which currently incurs no SDLT, will cost £6,250 in Stamp Duty after the changes take effect. Additionally, first time buyers' relief will only apply on properties up to £500,000 and properties bought between £300,000 and up to £500,000 will attract a Stamp duty tax of 5% .
